The first Commercial Crime Workshop was conducted as a joint venture between ARMSA and Justice College. This workshop was conducted primarily for Regional Magistrates of the Limpopo & Mpumalanga regions. Justice College is thanked for making available the funds for this workshop. The workshop was attended by fifteen Regional Magistrates as well as Magistrates from the Polokwane cluster. The participants were addressed by Judge Ronnie Bosielo (TPD) whose keynote address dealt with the role of judicial officer in the fight against commercial crimes. The participants were extensively addressed by Regional Magistrates Jakkie Wessels and Hein Louw on a smorgasbord of topics related to commercial crimes. It was clear that the practical experience gained by these two magistrates in the Specialised Commercial Crimes Courts were both valuable and made them experts in their own right on the subject matter at hand. The workshop was also addressed by Khemi Behari of Justice College on computer related crimes.
